

Tim in KY TdF Stage 9 is 174 kilometers from Chinon south and east to Châteauroux in pretty much the center of France. Sir Mark won his first TdF stage in the finish town and two subsequent stages as well. It appears that much will be made of that by the organizers and the TVs.

01:13:31 pm

Tim in KY Well, I guess there was some confusion somewhere. Le Tour and PCS now have classified Eddie Dunbar's abandon as a DNF, not a DNS. Interestingly there are still websites that say he DNS. His own team's website says he DNS but officially he was DNF.

BusterSci We have sufficient Canadian smoke that the skies are yellow and visibility is significantly curtailed. I'm seeing a 174 AQI. I learned yesterday that Canada uses a different scale, 1-10 with the addition of an "above 10" category. Is that HC AQI? Yesterday Winnipeg was at 11, so Spinal Tap fans should be happy.

07-13-2025

BusterSci Hi Katie.

07-13-2025
07:29:25 am

Tim in KY Good morning Katie. How did the wedding go?

07-13-2025
07:29:31 am

BusterSci I think I like Canada's system best. Going to three digits leads to a bit of false precision. Europe does 1-100. That's probably OK because it gives you more of the good side or bad side of a range. But 1-10 for a "normal" range where activity might still be acceptable and go over 10 when it's so bad you should stay inside but it's still worth conveying how extreme it is in case you do have to go out.

07-13-2025
07:33:05 am

Katie S It was lovely. The happy couple looked indeed happy. My brother did a wonderful job of officiating, a gentle mix of humor and ritual. My middle sister was the music - solo violin. My other sister, the mother of the groom, looked proud and beautiful. My mom was utterly captivated and so happy. And I will say, the all-vegan menu (bride's desire) was actually delicious. And the setting in the redwoods was lovely. And mom and I were home by 8:45.

07-13-2025
07:33:39 am

BusterSci We do 1-200+, which isn't sensible. Other countries go 400+ or 500+.

07-13-2025
07:33:50 am

BusterSci Weddings are good. Not a fan of formal or theme ones, but they aren't mine and I'm not paying for them so I don't get a vote. But we're at the point where it's more funerals than weddings. Doesn't help that a lot of the children of my friend group are sit in the basement on the computer types rather than actually ones to talk to someone they might form a relationship with.

07-13-2025
07:37:19 am

Tim in KY I wonder if Alpecin expected this response to their attack.

07-13-2025
07:39:42 am

Katie S My sisters are 13 and 14 years younger than I am, so there are a lot of younger people in my sphere. A wry observation of apparel: I was the only female in slacks ... even my 12-year-old niece, who lives in either her vintage Ford Bronco or Pink Floyd T-shirt, wore a dress. I don't even own one.

07-13-2025
07:40:56 am

BusterSci Me neither.

07-13-2025
07:41:17 am

Katie S The bride's brother, a tall, lanky, mop-headed philosophy major, was her "mate of honor." He wore the same earrings as the female bridesmaids. Loved how easily he took the role. It was very sweet.

07-13-2025
07:43:53 am

BusterSci I think good.

07-13-2025
07:48:07 am

Tim in KY Have they asked Kaden Groves about that?

07-13-2025
07:48:26 am

Tim in KY There were fines yesterday for team car drafting, irregular sprinting and peeing in public.

07-13-2025
07:51:05 am

BusterSci Groves is already 48 points behind MvdP. I haven't looked at remaining opportunities but I'd guess it's a matter of balancing straight sprint stages vs the classics like ones, what the finishes and intermediates look like, and who's on form. That, and "I'm freaking Mathieu van der Poel and I get to decide."

07-13-2025
07:54:50 am

Katie S Well, if you put it that way, the time-honored nature break seems crass
