mmcnally Just dropping in before we head to our base camp for todayâ€™s Stage 18. We will be at the Tour de France Relais Etape hospitality area today in Argeles-Gazost, right before the riders start the Hautacam finish. Yesterday we were in the Tourâ€™s Izoard hospitality area right at the bottom of the last climb to the finish. We had a three decker unit and Deb and I went to the second level. From there we had the perfect view of the riders coming in from about 650m out all the way to the finish line. Walking up that last 350m after the race was something else and I can only imagine how it impacted the riders. The Izoard area was great with all drinks included and rotating snacks throughout the day. We had a lively Belgian crew on the other side of the road that were entertaining to watch. And the crowds were insane. When we loaded our bus to head back to the hotel we met traffic the entire way and the 1.5 hour trip took probably 3.5 hours. The amount of bicycles was great to see, although navigating all those cars and people while on your bike, would have made me nervous. Driving in it was great to see families camping out on the side of the road with their makeshift picnics, waiting who knows how many hours to watch the race come through. It was truly a wonderful experience, more than I ever could have imagined or hope for. I canâ€™t lie, it all brought tears to me eyes. Canâ€™t wait to see what is in store for Deb and I today. Enjoy your day everyone! 07-21-2022 03:41:57 am

BusterSci This tweet from Daniel Friebe is the way I feel about the race so far: "Youâ€˜re allowed to say Pogâ€˜s attacks havenâ€˜t worked once Vingegaard has crossed line at Hautacam this afternoon. Until then, itâ€˜s a bit like telling a woodcutter every swing of the axe was pointless because the tree hasnâ€˜t fallen yet."

SFinAus Saw a Matt Stephens tweet yesterday in which he asked G what he had for breakfast yesterday.Â "Medium rare steak, yogurt, and asparagus - it's a low carb day".Â Surely his nutritionist, trainer, coach know better than I, but it seemed like more carbs would have been in the cards for yesterday's stage.Â :shrug:

Tim in KY Ciccone just three points off the KOM now. 07-21-2022 09:38:44 am

BusterSci I did not expect this stage to be so controlled in the GC battle. Â Is Pog waiting for Hautacam? That seems...not ideal. Â But I'm riding a sofa, not a bike. 07-21-2022 09:41:02 am

Katie S I'm a-gonna guess that's it ... he'll attack for Hautacam. Don't think he can get a gap -- be allowed to -- any earlier. 07-21-2022 09:42:10 am

Tim in KY 20 km descent. 07-21-2022 09:43:05 am

Tim in KY Lead group is 18 minutes faster than the fastest.... 07-21-2022 09:44:37 am

BusterSci I'd like to hear more from a team manager, a DS, and a GC rider what the pressures are to hold a podium place. Â If it's just me, if I've one twice already it doesn't seem holding onto second is something I'd care about. Â So today I'd try anything to win, even if I ended up losing a podium place. Â And unless Pog got McNulty's motor from yesterday, I just don't see why he thinks he can crack Vingo on the last mountain. 07-21-2022 09:46:49 am

Trish in MA Good morning. Â Tim, beautiful. Â McNally, so jealous. Â Who's your tour operator/guide? 07-21-2022 09:51:30 am

Katie S I was wondering that too, Trish. Maybe he'll let us know in the morning. When Mike and I had a chance to meet in person last spring/summer in Phoenix (over a beer in a pub) he told me this trip was in the works but didn't mention an operator, and I neglected to ask. 07-21-2022 09:53:06 am

Trish in MA I kept stopping the replay last night looking for McNally in the crowd. Â Now that I know where he is, I might take another look. Â How cool it would be to have a Lugnut on the telly 07-21-2022 09:55:53 am

07-21-2022
10:00:07 am

Trish in MA Pie is so diverse in terms of what you can do. Â Cake, not so much. Â Several years ago I made a pie a week for over a year and never repeated one.

07-21-2022

BusterSci Along the north shore of Superior there's a pie shop called Betty's Pies. Â WE've laughed at it for years because the sign is in script and the "e" pin pies looks a lot like an "s" and, well...

Katie S Mike! Bonjour! 07-21-2022 10:06:37 am

BusterSci Ripley has become a huge fan of being outside. Unfortunately, the orientation of our house makes the deck about 15-20 degrees hotter than ambient. Â SO she's taken to crawling under the deck to get into shade. Â Now that I've finished my rock moving, I think I need to build her a shade shelter for her outside bed. 07-21-2022 10:06:41 am

Katie S This is a great spot to watch them fly around that corner! When are they expected to get there? 07-21-2022 10:07:27 am

BusterSci Mike, send us a screen shot of your location on Google Maps so we can watch for you when we get there. 07-21-2022 10:07:28 am
