-  BusterSci In case anyone was wondering, I found this...Rule of thumb is: lower case v or d or t when Dutch or of Dutch descent when using full name (Wout van Aert, Tejay van Garderen). Upper case V when Belgian. When used as stand-alone it's always a capital V, so Van Vleuten attacks, Ten Dam gets dropped From 01-Sep-2018

-  BusterSci I'd like to see the breakdown by nationality of riders worth considering for combativity before I jump to too many conclusions. I don't think a bit of bias is necessarily bad and I expect more Spanish riders to be out there. But, having said that, the last 700 metres are very tricky. We come from a big road to a roundabout, and then we will be climbing to the finish line like 5%, so it's not going to be a real sprint, but probably the fast guys will be there. It's perfect for Sagan or Valverde. There's a lot of this type of riders here. For us, it's not the perfect final." 01-Sep-2018
