 Tim in Ky There are four categorized climbs, a 3, a 4, and two Cat 1s. There is also a serious climb right in the middle that is uncategorized. The second Cat 1 is 8.3 km long and has some steep sections halfway up with a max gradient of 14%. After the final climb the route is 13 km pretty much downhill to the finish. 07-15 15:28

 Tim in Ky Tejay loses form when he is THE guy. 07-16 08:10

 Tim in Ky 1:21, lead to chase. 07-16 08:11

 mcnally_mi Tejay and Talansky are good one week racers. Tour of California type races. 07-16 08:12

 Tim in Ky Onto the Cat 3. 07-16 08:14

 BusterSci Talansky is well over an hour back on GC. He needs to ride for his leader, regardless of what he envisions for himself. 07-16 08:14

 mcnally_mi Nate Brown has hung around in the finales more than Talansky has this Tour. But he gets his role on the team. 07-16 08:16

 memb54 Good morning! 07-16 08:17

 Tim in Ky Morning Maite. 07-16 08:18

 BusterSci Out of 8 GT starts, Talansky has a 5th and 7th at the Vuelta and 10th and 07-16 08:18

11th at the Tour. Out of 10 starts, Tejay has 2 5ths at the Tour and a 20th at this years Giro. Talansky is a better GT rider than Tejay, but not this year.

 BusterSci 1km to the Cat3 OM 07-16 08:19

 BusterSci That's not deep meditation. 07-16 08:19

 Tim in Ky Talansky has won the Dauphine. What 5 day has Tejay won? 07-16 08:20

 BusterSci 2nd and 3rd at the Dauphine, 3rd and two 5ths at Catalunya, 4th and 5th at 07-16 08:21
Paris Nice

 mcnally_mi Tejay has a ToC and US Pro Cycling Classic wins. But those were not 07-16 08:21
WT races either.

 mcnally_mi 2 US Pro wins... 07-16 08:22

 BusterSci So neither is the next Lemond. 07-16 08:24

 Tim in Ky 1:18 to the chase. 07-16 08:25

 BusterSci I suspect Barguil will stop working until Matthews catches up. 07-16 08:25

 Tim in Ky He looks like he's working. 07-16 08:26

 mcnally_mi I'm not sure who the next true American GT legitimate contender will be. 07-16 08:26
TBD I guess.

07-16 09:44

BusterSci Kittens prefer low altitudes.

07-16 09:44

Katie Green Kittens, anyway.

07-16 09:45

Mons Soseman I am embarassed to say that even at my advanced age, I get prickly heat once in a while, certainly an infant's illness

07-16 09:45

Mons Soseman My cure? talcum powder

07-16 09:45

Mons Soseman but perhaps that is a banned substance

07-16 09:45

Katie Mons, btw: Interesting story in the NYT this morning about Cardinal Tobin (New Jersey) and Cardinal Dolan (New York).

07-16 09:46

 BusterSci J&J has recently been sued for baby powder causing ovarian cancer when used around, as Ricky Bobby would say, one's "mysterious lady parts." The scientific evidence is non-existent. 07-16 09:53

 Katie That movie is my guilty pleasure. Watched it for teh first time on a transatlantic flight during the sleeping hours. My snorts and guffaws from the last row of the middle section were not appreciated by the others, i fear. Except for the lady two seats over, who snorted and guffawed in unison with me. 07-16 09:54

 memb54 Yes, there have been lawsuits against J&J re talcum powder. 07-16 09:55

 BusterSci Talladega nights, Maite. 07-16 09:57

 BusterSci I've generally found that former SNL people don't make good stars of movies. They're fun in short bits, tedious over 90 minutes. But Will Farrell kills it in both Talladega Nights and Elf. 07-16 09:59

BusterSci One thing I love about being a cycling fan is I am not attached to any riders or teams particularly. I admit, I'm AGAINST some teams and riders, due to personalities, actions, history or violations. But as much as I may question the history and ethics of someone like Valverde and Movistar I can't help but cheer for the guy when he attacks. Aside from anything else, he knows how to race. And ultimately, it's the race I love.

07-16 10:26

David Stanley Katie, so's mine.

07-16 10:26

BusterSci I often fall asleep about 10:30-11 AM. I've typically been up 7-8 hours by then.

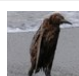

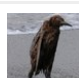

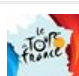

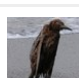

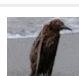

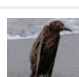

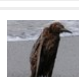

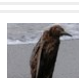

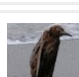

07-16 10:27

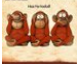

David Stanley Cycling in that regard is the weirdest of sports for the fan, BusterSci. We don't really have teams to root for. Guys on teams, as Mons said. Go to a football match, either kind, and probably 50-75% of the fans are wearing some kind of supporter gear. Go to a bike race? crickets.
