07:32:27 am

Rocket City Gal Yesterday's market was 3-7 pm. During set-up there were a couple of brief showers. Then at 3:15 a gentle shower started, followed by a brief period of heavy rain and a wind squall. I pulled everything under the canopy in a bit to keep it dry and covered stuff with tarps, but a lady intent on keeping dry squeezed under the canopy, backed into one of my 2 big racks, and it tipped over. It was an accident, but added a bit of excitement. The rain cleared up and the rest of the market went pretty well, but load-in was a bit frenzied because yet a 4th round of rain was looming.

07-11-2025
07:33:37 am

John Sounds like a very hectic afternoon. Hope today is better.

07-11-2025
07:36:33 am

Rocket City Gal I have another market tonight and the plan was to leave the van loaded. Instead, everything came in to thoroughly dry the damp and wet stuff and wash some of the stuff that hit the ground. It didn't look bad — fortunately mostly stuff tipped into the tarp with more of the tarp atop it and stayed clean and dry. A few things got drenched.

07-11-2025
07:37:19 am

Rocket City Gal Tonight's forecast is similar to yesterday, with a 20-25% chance of rain during set-up, dwindling to 10% by the very late (10 pm) end of the market. I need to charge and pack my battery packs and grab the awesome light my hubby made. He put a couple of coat hooks on the back of a long rectangular LED shop light that just hooks over the canopy frame. I have the best /brightest lighting at the market! I add some blinking Christmas lights for some bling. All is powered by a couple of fairly small, lightweight rechargeable Anker battery packs.

07-11-2025
07:43:58 am

Rocket City Gal The blessing yesterday is that that market has tie-down anchors installed in the parking lot and grassy part of vending area. The event staff shows up with straps and they securely strap down all 4 corners of everyone's canopy. So there were no canopy disasters related to wind gusts. At most markets, about half of the canopies probably would've blown over because folks are just too complacent about making sure they are adequately secured/weighted. There is a chance that people can be injured or even killed at events by canopies blowing around. Canopies are pretty heavy and they can catch the wind and sail.... :P

07-11-2025
07:51:17 am

Rocket City Gal I have about 80 lb of weight on my canopy — my canopy weights are kettle bells.

Katie S Regarding pop-up tents and wind ... at the end of a very long day of riding in the Bicycle Tour of Colorado, I was enjoying a much needed massage in one of the massage tents sponsored by the event when a massive gust of wind blew up and -- just like the three little pigs -- blew away the tents that were not properly anchored, exposing masseuses and massagees. But not my tent. My masseuse told me she had anticipated this and had anchored her tent with appropriate weight.

Rocket City Gal Wikipedia::: Freda Josephine Baker (née McDonald; 07-11-2025 08:41:53 am
June 3, 1906 – April 12, 1975), naturalized as Joséphine Baker, was an American-born French dancer, singer, and actress. Her career was centered primarily in Europe, mostly in France. She was the first Black woman to star in a major motion picture, the 1927 French silent film Siren of the Tropics, directed by Mario Nalpas and Henri Étiévant.[3]

Katie S I just have to share this leopard seal excerpt with you:

07-11-2025
09:03:33 am

Katie S By then, Orde-Lees had nearly reached the opposite side of the floe; he was about to cross to safe ice when the sea leopard's head exploded out of the water directly ahead of him. The animal had tracked his shadow across the ice. It made a savage lunge for Orde-Lees with its mouth open, revealing an enormous array of sawlike teeth. Orde-Lees' shouts for help rose to screams and he turned and raced away from his attacker. The animal leaped out of the water again in pursuit just as Wild arrived with his rifle. The sea leopard spotted Wild, and turned to attack him.

considering depth of field, etc. Read that pilots, and other professions that need absolute sharp distance vision, usually get the monofocal.

BusterSci I would have been very happy with sharp distance vision and reading glasses. For whatever reason, I'm OK at every distance, pretty good at, say, TV distance, but just not quite there for driving or reading. Acceptable, but it'd be nice to be clear somewhere.

07-11-2025

bikerabe crash

07-11-2025
10:24:55 am

Rocket City Gal Hubby just had cataracts; he opted for sharp distance vision, plus reading glasses. He has one set for reading books and another prescription by the computer. It works for him.

Crash by 8 riders in peloton

-  HEALY Ben (EF Education - EasyPost)
-  MAS Enric (Movistar Team)
-  ALMEIDA João (UAE Team Emirates - XRG)
-  HAIG Jack (Bahrain - Victorious)
-  BITRAGO Santiago (Bahrain - Victorious)
-  MOHORIČ Matej (Bahrain - Victorious)

...

Tim in KY Somebody got seriously concussed.

07-11-2025
10:27:18 am

Tim in KY I guess that was Buitrago.

07-11-2025
10:28:14 am

Tim in KY The front group has grown a bit on the descent.

07-11-2025
10:28:53 am

Alaska Dave Wellens leading out Pog

07-11-2025
10:29:49 am

Rob Afternoon all, bit late to the chat. My friends dad had a stack of National Geographic magazines, and we used to look at the pictures from the Franklin expedition, I can still remember the pictures now. They had quite an impact on me at that age.

07-11-2025
10:31:09 am

Katie S Kite, cats and mice

07-11-2025
10:32:03 am

Katie S we have a winner!

07-11-2025
10:33:47 am

07-11-2025
10:35:03 am

Katie S Bob calls Tadej "the new Cannibal." I think we need something like "the Chipper Cannibal"

07-11-2025
10:35:33 am

Trish in MA Geez, I log in figuring I'd have at least an hour - and it's over. Morning, all, and (I guess), bye. We're off to Burlington VT for a few days - will be riding bikes along the Lake Champlain trail.

07-11-2025
10:37:12 am

Katie S Have fun, Trish!

07-11-2025
