Charlie in Tenn Good morning

09-04-2020
07:18:37

BusterSci Trying to get your moments of peace before the madness starts, Charlie?

09-04-2020
07:18:44

Tim in KY Scary looking bridge.

09-04-2020
07:21:59

Charlie in Tenn Not really. We decided yesterday to stop homeschooling with the online system the schools are using and change to a true home-school system made up of various books and only one online class. So for school today we will just be doing "simple stuff". The amount of stress removed is enormous. The online stuff was fine but did not work for us. I got 5 hours of sleep last night and feel great

07:28:58

Charlie in Tenn Having 2 kids on computers is challenging because you cannot follow what they are doing. My daughter is a 1st grader that stopped kindergarten in March and can't read much. I have to help her with every project/worksheet. My son just mentally wanders off into whatever. Keeping them both going forward was not easy for me. The new system will be less structured and hopefully, they can focus on subjects that they choose to follow. I am sure the openness will be difficult for me but hopefully their

09-04-2020
07:33:54

BusterSci I've learned something due to Covid and the Tour. Sitting in a comfy chair with the computer on my lap is horrible. Â It stresses my neck, gives me massive headaches, and might be causing balance issues. Â The neck/headache issues have been ongoing for years, but disappeared this spring. Less than a week into the Tour they're back, and the only cause I can think of is this bad computing position.

09-04-2020
07:34:56

Charlie in Tenn Change position, I say.

09-04-2020
07:35:34

Joanna in Virginia Sorry, Buster. I know from experience how a bad neck can affect balance.

09-04-2020
07:35:51

Charlie in Tenn From some unknown source, Today will be a windy day across the departments of Aveyron and Tarn, they'll face a crosswind for most of the day right until Castres, where they'll turn west, having then a cross tailwind until the finish in Lavaur

09-04-2020
07:35:53

Charlie in Tenn Maybe echelon day today!

09-04-2020

09-04-2020
07:39:28

Joanna in Virginia It still amazes me, all these years after inner ear tube failure and subsequent brain rewiring, random images and movies can set me off.

09-04-2020
07:40:14

Charlie in Tenn Cosnefroy attacks or tries to build the break. Anyway he is out front.

09-04-2020
07:40:17

mcnally_mi As the first rest day approaches and next big rounds of Covid tests, I read this in Newsweek about the state of things in France. "The French Ministry of Health said 7,017 cases were recorded Wednesday. This is just under 500 cases fewer than the country's biggest daily record on March 31 when 7,578 cases were reported."

09-04-2020
07:40:44

Joanna in Virginia That's a bit sobering...

09-04-2020
07:42:59

Charlie in Tenn Not at the tour - Ciccone for Trek tested positive and will not be at T-A race and probably not the Giro. He was not around most of the team for a few days and no others at Trek tested positive

09-04-2020
07:43:17

BusterSci Europe is currently experiencing more daily positive than at the hight of things this spring.

09-04-2020
07:43:25

Charlie in Tenn That is awful.

09-04-2020
07:43:51

BusterSci Like in the US, the fact that a higher percentage of positives are in the wider population rather than focused on highest risk, the death totals will almost certainly be much lower.

09-04-2020

09-04-2020
07:49:50

Charlie in Tenn yes, let's see teams trying to do something.

09-04-2020
07:50:46

Tim in KY Still a lot of time to catch back on.

09-04-2020
07:52:20

Charlie in Tenn Cosnefroy hung on but he is probably done for the day.

09-04-2020
07:53:57

BusterSci And this is what should happen, not just for enjoyment of the fans, but it's how the organizers set this up. These stages are supposed to interest different riders and teams. If you make a rolling stage difficult for the GC guys, too, then the fatigue sets in.

09-04-2020
07:54:14

BusterSci One group has caught back on at least.

09-04-2020
07:56:21

Charlie in Tenn I see 5 different groups all of similar sizes.

09-04-2020
07:56:50

BusterSci That front group got much bigger.

09-04-2020
07:57:19

09-04-2020
07:57:54

BusterSci Ah.

09-04-2020
07:58:04

mcnally_mi I could see Bora laying down this pace until that Sprint at 58km, try and take 20 points, then rest up for the finish.

09-04-2020
07:59:22

BusterSci The second group looks to be closing the gap. Â Not a lot, but it's closing rather than growing, I think.

09-04-2020
07:59:22

BusterSci I think that's the plan

09-04-2020
07:59:45

BusterSci I'd like to know if any secondary GC guys are in the back groups, like Uran or Yates that are fans of riding in back.

09-04-2020
08:00:23

BusterSci Those two are in front, but others?

09-04-2020

09-04-2020

09-04-2020
08:58:44

Charlie in Tenn Joanna - SAGAN

09-04-2020
08:59:30

Tim in KY This ia a long climb on a "flat" stage.Â Tuesday really is a flat stage. Starts a 1m above sea level and finishes at 1m. There is a short section at 38m. That's as high as it gets.

09-04-2020
09:00:00

Joanna in Virginia Yes, SAGAN/ARTIE - hence, my dilemma.

09-04-2020
09:00:29

BusterSci I like WHF. But I'm not sure I like his role in the Tour, at least until I see him hold his own in the high mountains. While his riding is great and he's very exciting, I think he serves as kind of a foil that that top challengers play against each other instead of going head to head. Just a suspicion. But last year, and so far this year, had the big guns keep their powder dry far too long for my taste, and I think it was because they were all happy to leave yellow with WHF until the last few stages. That's also the way the last two tours have been designed, so I'm not convinced it's because of WHF, but he does play a role in it.

09-04-2020
09:01:20

BusterSci I'm reading that once they get to 40km to go, everything will be a tailwind so the catch has to come before then, if at all.

09-04-2020

Trish in MA Morning Katie.

09-04-2020
09:31:51

Donny It's a polarizing issue BusterSci, everything these days is it seems.

09-04-2020
09:32:47

Donny why should we be any different

09-04-2020
09:32:56

Katie S Noooooooooooooooooooooooooooo

09-04-2020
09:33:06

Katie S crash

09-04-2020
09:33:33

Donny unless of course you would like to stand up for your rights make sure your side of the debate/yelling match wins.

09-04-2020
09:33:54

09-04-2020
09:38:28

BusterSci I'm staying with Jumbo. Â Or maybe the Hive.

09-04-2020
09:39:08

Katie S Pretty grass. Croquet, anyone?

09-04-2020
09:40:02

BusterSci The entire Robot Chicken Star Wars is a must watch if you are even marginally a fan of Star Wars. Â I am only marginally a fan. Â I think the best of the movies was barely better than B quality, and the whole series would have died after the first were it not for John Williams' score and some amazing special effects.

09-04-2020
09:40:40

BusterSci Sis that post twice for everyone else?

Katie S We watched the entire Star Wars collection early in the lockdown (we also watched all Harry Potter movies). We were struck dumb by how BAD the original Star Wars was. But we stuck through them all -- in production order. It was great fun. 09-04-2020 09:42:17

BusterSci Culturally significant. Â Really lousy movie making. Â Horrific dialogue. 09-04-2020 09:42:52

Katie S Very stiff acting - with the exception of Harrison Ford and Alec Guinness 09-04-2020 09:43:39

Katie S yes 09-04-2020 09:43:59

BusterSci Seeing the chateau, anybody else watch Escape to the Chateau? 09-04-2020 09:44:42

Donny Hey Charlie, I heard back from Gillymarie yesterday. Â She is just a bit under the weather and on some antibiotics but otherwise seemed in good spirits. Â Snark still on fleek :) 09-04-2020 09:44:56

Katie S nope - is it worth watching? 09-04-2020 09:45:44

Charlie in Tenn Glad to hear it Donny. 09-04-2020 09:47:32

Trish in MA I watched one-half of one episode and then couldn't be bothered. Â Everything was too set-up and included many of the standard set pieces of these (not-really) reality shows. 09-04-2020 09:47:42

BusterSci It's fun. take your basic money-pit home improvement show, put it in a 19th century chateau. Â It isn't must watch TV, but it typically runs late Saturday afternoon here and makes a fun nothing for the background while working on the pre-dinner drinks.

09-04-2020
09:48:01

BusterSci I just think the Brits do it more genuinely than the US shows do

09-04-2020
09:48:44

Trish in MA That's what was missing - pre-dinner drinks - and lots of them!

09-04-2020
09:48:46

BusterSci Like Great British Baking show. Â US shows have to have intrigue and trash talk. Â Brit version is just a bunch of mostly nice people trying their best.

09-04-2020
09:49:35

Charlie in Tenn You should all try "The Floor is Lava" . My son loves it.

09-04-2020
09:49:45

BusterSci Wait. Â It's not?

09-04-2020
09:50:09

Donny If you watched Star Wars as a kid, then it is just part of you. Â The timing of the prequel trio insured the rise of another generation of Star was fans. Â The rise of Skywalker saga is garbage, but preformed perhaps the same function. Â Though the cartoon series of Clone Wars, and Rebels probably did a better job. Â Now we have the Mandalorian and it is just a great show roughly in the Star Wars universe. Â I have also read many of the Star Wars books and comic books as well as the graphic novels. Â I am more than a casual observer.

09-04-2020
09:50:14

Charlie in Tenn Great British Baking show is wonderful. American TV is horrid.

09-04-2020
09:50:33

Donny I have a dear British friend that is doing Escape to the Chateau. Â He started his 52 room Normandy Chateau restoration about 2 years ago. Â Not sure when it will be on though.

09-04-2020
09:51:59

Katie S Apparently so, Donny. My bro-in-law is a diehard fan, and his sons (16 and 20) were raised that way. My brother still has the vinyl record sound track.

09-04-2020
09:52:30

Trish in MA I love the GBBS. Â Where is the American show? Â I confess to trying my hand at a number of Â the challenges on the show. Â This spring I have been exploring breads of the world, and confess that I love make filo dough

09-04-2020
09:52:30

Charlie in Tenn I loved the animated series and Rogue One. Liked Solo and most of the rest. Need to find the time to watch the Madalorian.

09:56:29

Joanna in Virginia By Donny. Thanks for stopping by!

09-04-2020
09:56:55

Trish in MA Charlie, I gotta see this show.

09-04-2020
09:57:14

BusterSci As a member of the Star Trek generation, I can't get over the fact that the few relationships that are developed in Star Wars are shallow and forced--overdramatized and meaningless. Â But the crew of the Enterprise meant something. Â And then reading Aubrey and Maturin and seeing Kirk and Spock in most everything they do...that's good stuff.

09-04-2020
09:59:25

BusterSci DeGendt hoping another 20km gets him to the tailwind that takes him home.

is, though. 10:44:28

Charlie in Tenn someone thinks these guys are in front Yates, roglic, Martin, Bernal, NQ, Bardet, Lopez, Uran, Alaphilippe, Buchmann, Mas, Valverde, Carapaz, Higuita, Lutsenko, Molard, Barguil, Kuss, Insausti, Llsanchez, Bennett, Kwiatkowski, Insausti, cherel, Castroviejo, WVA, Madouas, Gautier, Houle, Bettiol, Kung, Stuyven, EBH, Fraile, Venturini, Ladagnous, Sagan, Gogl, Coquard, Laporte.

09-04-2020

09-04-2020
10:51:34

Katie S With the mountains closed off only to spectators on foot or human-powered two-wheel vehicles, Didi is having to make do with the bases of the climbs - or the flats. My hat is off to him.

09-04-2020

Tim in KY EF has three guys in the front group so they should keep the yellow numbers.

09-04-2020

10:57:42

Trish in MA Trying to see how many Innies are in the front group

09-04-2020
10:58:07

BusterSci The best about this is now Pog and Landa have to start firing shots early on the climbs. Â It can't just be holding the group together until the last KM.

09-04-2020
10:58:53

BusterSci Stop calling it the group of Ritchie Porte. Â It's Group Pogacar.

09-04-2020
