

Tim in KY This link in to previews, maps, and profiles of TA stage 3 and PN stage 6.

03-08

TA is insanely long and the finish is insanely hard. PN's first half is relentlessly up a false flat, the second half is four Cat 2s and a Cat 1. ASO calls it "hilly".

17:31

<http://www.ciclismointernacional.com/category/previews/>

Tim in KY My presences here will be sporadic the next few days. PN gets underway in a few minutes.

03-09

05:31

Tim in KY 33 km into PN there is a break of 13: Bak (Lotto-Soudal), Amael Moinard

03-09

(Fortuneo), Paul Martens (Lotto-Jumbo), Cyril Lemoine (Cofidis), Tom Scully (Education First) and Fabien Grellier (Direct Energie), Alexander Kristoff (UAE), Nils Politt (Katusha), Dylan Teuns (BMC), Thomas De Gendt (Lotto-Soudal), Arnaud Demare (Groupama-FDJ), Carlos Barbero (Movistar) and Bert Van Lerberghe (Cofidis). Gap is 2:35.

06:16

BusterSci About an hour for TA TV

03-09

06:37

BusterSci 5 in a break. Again, all from wildcard teams. 7:45 the gap.

03-09

06:39

BusterSci Long stage. 239km, 160km to go. That's your update from Italy.

03-09

06:39

BusterSci Looks like the PN peloton took a wrong turn.

03-09

06:43

BusterSci So there's a feud now between Direct Energie and Katusha, due to all the wheel sucking by Cousin yesterday.

03-09

06:51

Tim in KY Teuns in the PN break means there won't be any leash. He's only 1:00

03-09

behind Yellow.

06:51

BusterSci Autocorrect is wanting to change peloton to lepton today. It's been years since I've done any particle physics and I've never used pre-euro Greek currency.

03-09

06:54

Tim in KY PN has already had their first intermediate sprint. 1. Barbero 3 points, 3 seconds, 2. Scully 2 points, 2 seconds, 3. Grellier 1 point, 1 second. The second sprint is in St-Paul de Vence which a really cute ancient hill town overlooking the Mediterranean. It also has a large modern art museum..

03-09

06:57

Joanna in New York Back in a mo', have to make myself a cup of tea, and already have some work to do...

03-09

06:58

BusterSci Peloton in TA rides through Montalcino. A lovely place, if you're in the area.

03-09
06:58

Tim in KY Been there already.

03-09
07:00

BusterSci In Italian wine and countryside, I'm partial to Piemonte over Tuscany. But it's a choice that can't be made incorrectly.

03-09
07:03

BusterSci Donny Donny bo bonny, banana fanna fo fonny, me my mo monny. Donny.

03-09
07:03

Donny Thanks for the welcome Buster, and a fine jolly good A.M. greeting to you all.

03-09
07:06

Maite Good morning from cold downtown Charleston!

03-09
07:09

BusterSci Welcome to the country, Maite.

03-09
07:11

BusterSci 8:10 the gap with 145km to go in TA

03-09
07:13

Tim in KY Charleston may, on rare occasions, be chilly, but it is never cold.

03-09
07:13

Maite 30C!!! But the hospitality is out of this World

03-09
07:14

Tim in KY PN gap stays under 3:00.

03-09
07:14

BusterSci 3C will be our high here today, if we're lucky.

03-09
07:14

BusterSci And we'll consider it warm. The adaptability of the human body is a fascinating thing.

03-09
07:15

BusterSci You see some interesting things in a climate that swings 120F or more from summer highs to winter lows. The first 50F day of spring will see people walking their dogs in shorts and tees but a 60F day during a summer cold front will have the same people crack out their winter coats.

03-09
07:21

Maite Im coming from 37oC so due for thermal shock!

03-09
07:23

Joanna in New York Okay back from arranging a date (albeit a clinical one) for my stallion. :)

03-09
07:24

Donny Buster I have noticed this same effect in myself when deciding if it is warm enough for me to go for a ride or not. Spring time says 7or 8 is just fine. Though in the fall if it is below 10, I'm indoors. 3c is just cold, and I don't care who you are.

03-09

07:24

Donny Maite, I am sure all the folks in Charleston are feeling your pain. They don't really know how to deal with temps that low either.

03-09

07:25

BusterSci 125km to go in Italy. Gap says 8:10 but I think the CN guys are asleep at the GPS.

03-09

07:28

BusterSci If it hasn't already discussed, Bouhanni has withdrawn from PN and

03-09

Degenkolb from TA.

07:29

BusterSci 3m gap with about 120km to go in France.

03-09

07:30

BusterSci One thing I keep reminding myself about spring here is that a mid March sun has the radiative heat of a late September sun. So 3C today is much warmer feeling than 3C in January. there is a lot of heat in a March sun, which is why we get a lot of melt and snow sink even when it isn't above freezing.

03-09

07:32

BusterSci Recent Cycling Podcast had some discussion of the peloton's response to the Froome situation. Said that Froome and Dumoulin sat next to each other at the pre-TA press conference. Froome tried to be friendly and Tom was having none of it. Although Dumoulin's comments acknowledged Froome's right to race under the rules, he made clear that he didn't think it was good for the sport.

03-09

07:40

BusterSci Right around 3m with about 112km to go in France.

03-09

07:42

Tim in KY Setting the clocks ahead, changing the smoke detector batteries, laundry, packing..... PN gap still three. Just noticed that Demare is in the break.

03-09

07:44

Joanna in New York Bevin leading the bunch in T/A, 108km, 7:31

03-09

07:44

Tim in KY Didn't he used to ride Argyle?

03-09
07:45

Joanna in New York Oh yeah, Daylight Savings Time time...means I have to break out the instruction manual for my alarm clock (which I never use anymore).

03-09
07:45

BusterSci Does anybody want to defend Daylight Savings time?

03-09
07:45

Joanna in New York Andersen abandons.

03-09
07:46

Tim in KY Not me. Not only is it annoying, it doesn't save energy.

03-09
07:46

Tim in KY Don't set your clocks ahead until Saturday night, Jo. I did it today because we won't be here Saturday.

03-09
07:47

Joanna in New York In all the Daylight Savings Time chatter, I have yet to hear a strong opinion to keep it, always against.

03-09
07:47

BusterSci Florida, being all sorts of strange, has passed a law to stay permanently on daylight time.

03-09
07:48

Tim in KY Arizona and Indiana used to stay on Standard time all year.

03-09
07:49

Joanna in New York Nevada used to not make the switch as well, which we discovered when driving across the country and couldn't check into our hotel because we were actually an hour earlier than expected. Too much for my simple brain at the time, we should have just kept driving...

03-09
07:51

BusterSci AZ still does. Don't know about Indiana

03-09
07:53

Tim in KY Indiana caved finally.

03-09
07:55

BusterSci Hawaii also does not use Daylight Savings, but it doesn't matter quite so much since they aren't surrounded by states that do.

03-09
07:55

Tim in KY That was Indiana's problem. Too many commuters in and out of IL,OH and KY.

03-09
07:57

BusterSci 99.6km, 7:12 in Italy. You can catch a stream now at Tiz or from any of the steep hill links.

03-09
07:57

Tim in KY I have enough to do that I think I will stick to PN today.

03-09
07:58

Charles Davis Hi All.

03-09
07:59

BusterSci Dumoulin having a chat with the team car

03-09
07:59

Joanna in New York Hi Charles!

03-09
08:00

BusterSci It was another mechanical for Tom.

03-09
08:01

Tim in KY Magic wrench?

03-09
08:03

BusterSci No. Bike change.

03-09
08:04

Tim in KY The motor so soon?

03-09
08:04

Tim in KY The weather forecast for Paris has improved considerably. Still some rain, but not as much and warmer temps.

03-09
08:05

BusterSci Tough crowd.

03-09
08:05

BusterSci How long are you there?

03-09
08:06

Tim in KY A week. It coincides with my wife's spring break. She's teaching three courses this semester.

03-09
08:08

BusterSci Pooch has put a damper on our travels. We consider it a fair trade, but doesn't make me less envious of your trip.

03-09
08:09

BusterSci 91km, 7:29 the gap. I'm out for 20m or so to take the dog to daycare.

03-09
08:11

Joanna in New York So, this isn't a current photo - in fact, it is a month old; but, here is the broodmare I am leasing carrying AJ (Artie Jr.). We do not know if it will be a colt or a filly, but I'm calling it AJ anyway.

03-09

08:16

Donny Ignatas Konovalovas has abandoned P-N What ever shall we do? I am shocked,

03-09

I tell you.

08:18

Tim in KY PN is over the first Cat 2. The gap remains 3:00.

03-09

08:18

Tim in KY KOM results: 1. De Gendt 7 points, 2. Grellier 5 points, 3. Bak 3 points, 4.

03-09

Moinard 2 points, 5. Scully 1 point.

08:19

Tim in KY Ol' Kono had been doing some heay lifing for Demare early on.

03-09

08:23

Donny and now his watch has ended.

03-09

08:28

Charles Davis 77 break at 7:07

03-09

08:29

Charles Davis at T-A

03-09

08:29

BusterSci And so it goes.

03-09

08:29

Charles Davis Lots of talk about Sky and who is the leader, Kwiato, G, Froome?

03-09

08:30

Donny Trying to draw focus away from all the other talk involving Sky. Its a good political trick.

03-09

08:31

Charles Davis 230 km with a kicker at the end. GVA wants to win today so the classics guys are all potentials.

03-09

08:31

Charles Davis Landa is getting a lot of talk as well.

03-09

08:33

Donny time for another bold prediction in the T-A race. Kittel will not win today.

03-09

Neither will Degenkolb both have the same 0% win probability according to my advanced metrics.

08:33

Maite Got to go. Off to Charlotte to meet up with my kid brother. I'll catch up tonight on what's happened in the races.

03-09

08:35

Joanna in New York It is insight like yours, Donny, that keeps us coming back. ;)

03-09

08:36

03-09

03-09

08:37

BusterSci Getting set up on the treadmill...

03-09

08:57

03-09

50% chance to win everything sort of falls apart and I start tossing a coin.

08:59

Tim in KY Donny, I mostly like to walk, especially along the river or the Canal St-

03-09

Martin. Indoor spot would be Musee d'Osay.

09:12

Donny Looks nice but a bit too far away and would take forever to get there on a

03-09

treadmill

09:12

BusterSci I'd vote for walking and the Cluny.

03-09

09:13

Joanna in New York Both.

03-09

09:14

BusterSci Gold is on

03-09

09:15

03-09

09:16

Joanna in New York They are beautiful, Buster.

03-09

09:16

Tim in KY Cluny has been undoing major renovations for at least two years but the rooms that are open are a great improvement. When we first visited back in 2000 it looked stuck in the 50s.

03-09

09:17

BusterSci That's good to hear. Will be worth another visit when we get back to Paris

03-09

09:17

BusterSci 43km, 5:45 in Italy

03-09

09:18

Donny Walking around Paris never gets old does it. Musée d'Orsay is also one of my favorite spots. If I'm honest it is my favorite museum in the world. Houses my favorite sculpture as well, Le Désespoir .

03-09

09:18

Donny Moma in NYC is a not to distant second on the museum front.

03-09

09:19

Tim in KY The Rodin museum has also been greatly improved in the last few years.

03-09

09:19

Charles Davis I have been to Paris for a few very touristy days. Would like to return

03-09

but kids, kids, kids.

09:19

Tim in KY Break is reduced to 5 at PN.

03-09
09:20

Tim in KY Sadly, Charlie, there is never a non-touristy day at the signature sites in Paris.

03-09
09:21

03-09
