Â Cut to 150km

BusterSci Start planned for 7:30 EDT

10-23-2020

Tim in KY Glad I didn't get up for the start.Â I don't blame the riders for complaining 258 kilometers between two big mountain stages seemed unnecessary.

10-23-2020

10-23-2020
04:27:38

Tim in KY With the changes to stage 20 tomorrow, The Rube has an insurmountable lead in the KOM contest.

10-23-2020
04:36:52

BusterSci Smart riding. Â I wonder how much of DQS strategy was keep JoWow in pink as long as possible, knowing that the big climbs would do him in but thinking that route changes/cancellations may rescue him. Â Also why Roglic was willing to take the jersey on stage 1.

10-23-2020
04:51:54

BusterSci In Spain, of course.

10-23-2020
04:52:03

Tim in KY It was unlikely the Rube would have lost the blue jersey even if the stage hadn't been changed. To take the jersey, DeGendt would have had to be first over three Cat 1s and a Cat 2 with The Rube getting no points on any of them.

10-23-2020
04:56:15

BusterSci Agreed. After yesterday it would have been settled regardless--at least practically.

10-23-2020
05:14:44

BusterSci Honestly, this shortened stage is a relief for watchers as much as riders. Â Too bad they couldn't have started at the same time and let us get over to the Vuelta early.

10-23-2020
05:26:06

Bill Wilkinson We have a breakaway in Spain....Harry Tanfield (AG2R La Mondiale), Luis Angel Mate (Cofidis), Jesus Ezquerria and Willem Smit (Burgos-BH)'s

10-23-2020
05:26:38

BusterSci Ah. Â Maybe I'll finish cleaning the garage then.

10-23-2020
05:26:41

Bill Wilkinson Chris Froome (Ineos Grenadiers) is riding La Vuelta for the first time since 2017: â€œI feel good so far. Itâ€™s nice to have a bit of an easier day today. The first three stages have been explosive. Itâ€™s been great to test the legs and to see what the condition is. Obviously we have Richie Carapaz in a really good position. Heâ€™s fighting for the overall victory and weâ€™re going to keep trying to protect him as much as possible in the next days. Itâ€™s nice for me to be able to find my condition again being here at La Vuelta. Iâ€™m looking to get the most out of this race from a personal point of view to try and progress my condition and hopefully finish the race in a really good way. Iâ€™ve been very fortunate over the years to have so many people helping me to win the big races. I know how important this job is and certainly when Iâ€™m not in a position to win myself nothing gives me more pleasure than being able to repay the other riders.â€

10-23-2020
05:31:03

10-23-2020
05:31:35

Rocket City Gal just turned in the stage to find out the weirdness. Â First time Iâ€™ve ever seen â€œem line up in real time.

10-23-2020
05:31:59

BusterSci All Toobin did was take the figurative description of large company meetings people have used for years and make it literal.

10-23-2020
05:32:42

Rocket City Gal True.

10-23-2020
05:33:15

BusterSci I think the shocker is it took this long for something on that level of wrong and embarrassing to happen on a Zoom meeting.

10-23-2020
05:35:58

Bill Wilkinson Now if only he had been at a Presidential rally, the analogy would be complete...

Katie S I'm just super excited I get to watch a start, for a change!

10-23-2020
05:36:13

BusterSci My favorite description, though, is the Toobin Missile Crisis.

10-23-2020
05:36:20

Tim in KY Is any team going to mind the gap for a bunch sprint finish?

10-23-2020
05:37:41

Katie S I understand the basis for a protest because 5 km were added to an already-long stage because of a bridge collapse -- but I don't think I'd have supported a protest this late in things with no other calamity. Although it seems like a stupid length after a big day on the biggest of cimbbs and a very long transfer, the route has been known for a long time.

10-23-2020
05:38:16

Charlie in Tenn My sweet sheltered wife had not heard about Toobin until I mentioned some joke about it last night. She was fascinated.

10-23-2020
05:38:18

BusterSci Katie, I want to agree, but I think one of the variables that couldn't be assessed was how the weather and the bubble would affect things. They've had a lot of wet and chilly days, and numerous complaints about transfers, accommodations, etc. A pile-up of annoyances, topped off with the prospect of cold and wet today after a brutal yesterday, isn't something that can be foreseen.

10-23-2020
05:42:16

Katie S ok, yeah, cold rain is a second calamity that might have been sufficient on its own.

10-23-2020
05:43:05

10-23-2020
05:54:21

BusterSci Katie, my tiny slice of the Twittersphere is discussing the same issue now and in much the same way. Â I wonder if another factor in the "why protest so late" is that as we know, the riders are very poorly organized as a group, and very focused on the day of the race individually. Â Nobody wants to protest in July a stage they don't even know they're going to be on the team for in October.

10-23-2020
05:54:23

Katie S True. I suspect this also shows the unusual level of stress these guys have been operating with under current circumstances, which did not exist when the race route was unveiled in the Pre-Covid Era.

10-23-2020
05:55:56

BusterSci That said, if I'm the organizer I'm pissed.

10-23-2020
06:04:33

Katie S on the second watch, it was clear one guy was flat out on the grass, not looking good. I will hope lack of news means it was not serious.

10-23-2020
06:05:41

BusterSci Any evidence his foot/leg was trapped under the vehicle?
Â Maybe they were waiting for a gap in the riders to lift the thing safely.
Â Other thought is that he broke a hip/leg/ankle in the fall so they had him laid out until doc could get there.

10-23-2020
06:09:42

BusterSci I'm having my universal translator do a search in Italian.

Katie S https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=1X_gZpullOU&feature=youtu.be 10-23-2020 06:26:31

Katie S Two rather dull stages on our grand tours ... a friend alerted me to Tabletop Shakespeare, where in a learned Brit bored with the lockdowns, I assume, acts out the complete works using household items. Here is his take on "Much Ado About Nothing," which begins in Sicily, as did our Giro: 10-23-2020 06:26:31

Katie S it's an hour long, so save it for later 10-23-2020 06:26:58

Bill Wilkinson I made it til about 90 in Patrick Stewart's daily Shakespeare sonnets before I fell hopelessly behind 10-23-2020 06:27:55

Katie S My problem with Shakespeare is I wish it was in English. 10-23-2020 06:29:37

Bill Wilkinson 2.3KU to go in Spain 10-23-2020 06:34:10

BusterSci When I return to Shakespeare occasionally, or anything written in verse, I find I have to slog through 20-30 pages before the rhythm starts to sink in, and then go back and start over again. Also, if it's in verse, it needs to be read aloud. 10-23-2020 06:35:07

Bill Wilkinson Then Patrick Stewart's run through the sonnets would be right up your alley. Occasional guest readers too...McKellen, Frakes... 10-23-2020 06:36:01

Katie S Priceless, Buster. Priceless.

10-23-2020
07:29:22

BusterSci Have we mentioned that Dani Martinez was a DNS today in the Vuelta?

10-23-2020
07:30:10

Tim in KY Camper keeps attacking with no success.

10-23-2020
07:30:20

Charlie in Tenn Haas, Torres, and Mosca are the fastest guys in the break.

10-23-2020
07:30:21

Bill Wilkinson Buster: I don't think so. The foot?

10-23-2020
07:31:05

Tim in KY Six off the front of the break now.

10-23-2020
07:31:13

BusterSci yes, the foot

10-23-2020
07:31:28

BusterSci And knee

10-23-2020
07:31:35

Bill Wilkinson And Geschke too...

10-23-2020
07:32:26

BusterSci Martinez hurt his geschke too?

10-23-2020
07:32:49

Alison Quarles ha!

10-23-2020
07:32:59

Bill Wilkinson And has a boil on his Semprini....

10-23-2020
07:33:04

Katie S ick

10-23-2020
07:33:22

BusterSci From Shakespeare riffs to this.

10-23-2020
07:34:03

Bill Wilkinson Oh, what a tangled web we weave...

10-23-2020
07:34:49

Charlie in Tenn Pellaud, Cerny, Clarke, Mosca, Arnee, Campernuts off the front

10-23-2020
07:35:08

BusterSci If Campernuts can get a gap it's his race. If they arrive together I'll take Haas.

10-23-2020
07:35:09

Tim in KY Cerny gets the gap.

10-23-2020
07:35:57

Charlie in Tenn Cerny was 5th in the last TT.

10-23-2020
07:36:30

BusterSci Yeah, he's hammering

10-23-2020
07:36:45

Charlie in Tenn Cerny was 6th in the first TT.

10-23-2020
07:36:54

BusterSci CCC can use a win

10-23-2020
07:36:59

Charlie in Tenn without a doubt.

10-23-2020
07:37:11

BusterSci Michael Valgren to EF1

10-23-2020
07:39:06

Tim in KY Cerny has 0:37.

10-23-2020
07:42:25

Bill Wilkinson Long straightaway before a right turn with tons o' road furniture....

10-23-2020
07:43:03

Katie S I'm shocked no one has used "A plague o' both your houses!"

10-23-2020
07:43:11

Bill Wilkinson Not so much a traffic island as a traffic archipeligo...

10-23-2020
07:43:33

BusterSci Katie, read the moment. Â NOT funny.

10-23-2020
07:44:36

BusterSci ðŸ˜œ

10-23-2020
07:44:42

Katie S THAT was my POINT...

10-23-2020
07:45:23

Charlie in Tenn Iljo Keisse bridged across to the chase group. Added a little to the chase.

10-23-2020
07:46:22

BusterSci Cerny pumping a lot more than a comfy TTer would. Â The body is doing the work instead of the legs.

10-23-2020
07:46:52

Bill Wilkinson Sprint: the break breaks up, Harry attacks....

10-23-2020

10-23-2020
07:49:27

BusterSci 10.6km and 30s

10-23-2020
07:49:56

BusterSci I'm taking Clarke if they catch

10-23-2020
07:50:09

Tim in KY Roads are wet again.

10-23-2020
07:50:48

Bill Wilkinson Tanfield has 17s on the chase, 34 on the bunch.

10-23-2020
07:50:51

Bill Wilkinson Movi punches it on a little climb...

10-23-2020
07:51:39

Charlie in Tenn Go Harry.

10-23-2020
07:52:12

Bill Wilkinson Smit looks to keep his aggression number for the day, drops Tanfield

10-23-2020
07:52:16

Bill Wilkinson Harry got shaved, Charlie...

10-23-2020
07:52:30

Katie S this is turning out to be dramatic finale in Italy.

10-23-2020
07:52:43

Bill Wilkinson 7s.

10-23-2020
07:52:59

Bill Wilkinson Hounds, heels,

10-23-2020

10-23-2020
07:54:43

Bill Wilkinson Caja Rural there too

10-23-2020
07:55:30

BusterSci I'd like to keep a camera on the chase in Italy. Â Campernuts, Keisse and Clarke close the gap when they're on the front. Â ArmÃ©e and the Mosca don't seem to.
