	BusterSci And I really like Rob Hatch, and wish we'd get him on any of the US coverages.	10-31-2020 09:19:46

-  bikerabe who will have anything left for Angliru ? 10-31-2020 09:27:32
-  mmcally McCrossan is a good guy. I have had a few conversations via instagram with him. In addition to the work he does with ASO, he is the english voice at the Giro for RCS doing the team presentations, stage starts and finishes. He has been a big proponent for women's racing with his own business ventures. He is did the Tour and this Vuelta for Gold because Keenan wasn't able to travel due to Covid. 10-31-2020 09:28:07

-  Bill Wilkinson Schlanger does a pretty good job, too... 10-31-2020 09:35:29
-  BusterSci But I also wonder if NBC might decide to cut costs and just stick with the global English feed. 10-31-2020 09:35:33
-  Katie S yeah, I do like someone with an accent that is not American. Just helps make it feel exotic-ish. 10-31-2020 09:37:53
-  Tim in KY This climb crests at 74.4 to go. 10-31-2020 09:38:01
-  BusterSci The problem I have with guys like Schlanger is they don't have the solid cycling knowledge. They can do the job, and if there's a good duo they can do facts on the road, but the experienced cycling guys can pick out riders by how they look on the bike, and that adds value. 10-31-2020 09:38:19
-  mmcally I like both Bob and CVV. Has a feel of two analysts in the booth. NBC has the rights through 2023. 10-31-2020 09:39:01

	Katie S do you know, I think this is our first wine conversation in three GTs	10-31-2020 10:54:25
	Tim in KY I used to collect wine, go to Napa and Sonoma to sample and send home cases.Â Had a wine cellar in the basement.Â Them ~15 years ago I caught a virus that destroyed 80% of my sense of smell. Now I can only distinguish two wines.Â One is red, the other isn't.	10-31-2020 10:56:27
	BusterSci We've been drinking a lot of Spanish wines this year.	10-31-2020 10:58:54
	John Champagne is most prevalent in our house these days, mostly because itâ€™s such a bargain at duty free. Looking forward to enjoying some of our wine when weâ€™re in the US in December.	10-31-2020 10:58:07
	Tim in KY 5 km to this summit. 2:51.	10-31-2020 10:58:09
	BusterSci Ah, Tim, what a tragedy. Â I've developed a tongue issue--it's either psoriasis on my tongue or geographic tongue, and when it flares it really hurts the wine appreciation. Â Fortunately, it doesn't affect smell, so it's not fatal.	10-31-2020 10:58:39
	John Thatâ€™s too bad Tim. Sounds like similar effect as covid. One of my friends who had it still canâ€™t distinguish smell very much	10-31-2020 10:59:51
	BusterSci A friend overdid the zinc a couple years ago and also destroyed sense of smell.	10-31-2020 11:00:41
	Donny When drinking wine from a curly straw out of a 1 liter glass, the appreciation for the taste seems to dip as the enjoyment rises. Â Or so I have found.	10-31-2020 11:02:46

-  Mikey I'm just learning and getting my feet wet in the wine world. The best man in our wedding is a wine monger and is trying to teach me a little. Love wines from Argentina. 10-31-2020 11:03:22
-  BusterSci When Frau and I met Mons in the Vatican, at lunch we had a bottle of good, cheap red called Rossobastardo. Å I took a photo and sent it to my brother Ross for obvious reasons, who wanted to know if I could get a few cases he could give them as gifts to his employees. Unfortunately, it isn't widely imported and those that do (PA liquor board and DE) don't ship out of state. 10-31-2020 11:04:17

	Donny I just hope that means what I hope it means buster.	10-31-2020 11:22:05
	Tim in KY GC group at 2:20 over the top.	10-31-2020 11:22:08
	BusterSci Me too, man. Â Me too	10-31-2020 11:22:36
	Mikey Buster, just saw a couple of guys go old school and stuff newspapers in the jersey	10-31-2020 11:22:47
	bikerabe Primoz wants Sepp with him on final climb	10-31-2020 11:22:53
	BusterSci They have such a hard time zipping jackets they figured they go with something they can manage.	10-31-2020 11:23:19
	SFinAus Saw a tweet from Dowset this year saying thanks to the fans with the newspapers.Â Too cross-eyed at the top of climbs to say it at the time.	10-31-2020 11:24:52
	BusterSci Watch Sep on the climb. Â He always does the "pull out and look at the group" routine. Â I'm trying to determine if it's a tell or just a thing he does.	10-31-2020 11:26:13
	Charlie in Tenn I thought about newspapers in the jerseys during all the jacket fiascos.	10-31-2020 11:26:13
	Mons Soseman Hello everyone and Happy Halloween.	10-31-2020 11:28:59

	BusterSci So they start upward at 24km, but the official climb doesn't start until 16.5	10-31-2020 11:29:07
	John Hey Mons	10-31-2020 11:29:13
	Tim in KY True, Buster.	10-31-2020 11:29:26
	Mons Soseman With everything we have gone through and now Sean Connery dies.Â C'mon 2020!!	10-31-2020 11:29:26

	Mikey Hi Mons Â Margaret Hamilton windy today in the QCA	10-31-2020 11:30:52
	BusterSci Another shifty climb. Â easy-hard-easy-hard	10-31-2020 11:31:45
	Mons Soseman BusterSci I didn't remember that Rossobastardo from our lunch in Rome...Â at least not in relation to your brother Ross...Â ;)	10-31-2020 11:31:48
	Mikey Liked your trunk and treat pictures. My wife told me her church did something like that	10-31-2020 11:32:36
	Tim in KY You left out really hard.	10-31-2020 11:32:46
	BusterSci True, Tim.	10-31-2020 11:33:52
	Mons Soseman 18 mph winds, that's fairly high, but I am hoping to get out in the saddle today...	10-31-2020 11:33:55
	BusterSci Breezy here, too. Â But we're headed into the 60s for next week.	10-31-2020 11:34:20
	Mons Soseman Lagos de Covadonga are so beautiful... So steep that I would want some double sided tape to hold me to the roadway...	10-31-2020 11:35:26
	BusterSci So the last batch of leaves that were under 8" of snow will dry up and I can gather them up before the real winter starts.	10-31-2020 11:35:43
	BusterSci It is incredible scenery. Â Lots of it so far this Vuelta	10-31-2020 11:36:02
	Alaska Dave 4 to 8 inches of rain predicted for SE Alaska.	10-31-2020 11:37:09
	BusterSci So a dry week.	10-31-2020 11:37:22
	Mons Soseman I am on the side of this hill, here at St. Valentine rectory, so with the strong south wind, I will head straight west, then turn north and have the wind blow me up the incline...Â Â Â On the way back, I'll be coasting against the wind...Â Hardly seems sporting, maybe...	10-31-2020 11:37:40
	BusterSci Seems wise.	10-31-2020 11:37:58
	Alaska Dave Weeks have been dry, but the weekends make up for it with storms. Rule of thumb, always start your ride into the wind.	10-31-2020 11:38:01
	Mikey Nice Dave always do the hard stuff first	10-31-2020 11:38:57

-  Charlie in Tenn Really a good idea for out and back 10-31-2020 11:39:19

-  Tim in KY official start at 16.5 km to go. 10-31-2020 11:39:30
-  Alaska Dave I only have out and back rides in Juneau. 10-31-2020 11:39:44
-  BusterSci In this neck of the woods it is not at all uncommon that if you start into the wind the wind will shift on your way back. Å Where I grew up on the edge of the plains you got winds you could count on. Å Here they seem shiftier. 10-31-2020 11:39:46
-  Charlie in Tenn Nice valley 10-31-2020 11:40:20
-  Alaska Dave There've been some beautiful canyons on this stage 10-31-2020 11:40:39
-  Mikey Anyone surprised to see the gap going up? 10-31-2020 11:40:58
-  BusterSci Digging into the deep snow in the winter you'd get striations. Å White=storm, black=North Dakota. 10-31-2020 11:41:08
-  BusterSci Not at all, Mikey. Å It's positioning. 10-31-2020 11:41:23

-  Alaska Dave It's also a full moon this year. 10-31-2020 11:42:01
-  Mons Soseman Shifting winds are often a problem on the Mississippi River trail.Å Well, you don't notice how many directions you shift into as you follow the shore, so there's that...Å Often, though the winds shift too, so starting against the wind sometimes mean also finishing against the wind.Å I do remember that old adage, that in cycling, if there is no wind, you are riding against the wind in all four directions.... 10-31-2020 11:43:42
-  Katie S I realize there are only 15 k left to go, but I'm gonna have to miss the finish. Will watch later, maybe stream in the car, who knows... 10-31-2020 11:43:58
-  Katie S See you tomorrow, falling back. 10-31-2020 11:44:05
-  Mons Soseman Spring back, fall forward, right? 10-31-2020 11:44:27
-  BusterSci Knock it back, fall forward. Å That's my motto. 10-31-2020 11:44:54
-  bikerabe you must be joking Mons 10-31-2020 11:45:13
-  Mons Soseman No human Springs forward, except a few Olympics jumpers, and we almost always fall forward... 10-31-2020 11:46:20
-  Mons Soseman only the French consistently fall back... 10-31-2020 11:46:37
-  Alaska Dave Two years ago I took a red eye flight that left Los Angeles at 11pm, flew for 3.5 hours, and arrived in Seattle at 1:30am. The gate agent could not explain it in any way that made sense. 10-31-2020 11:46:50
