SFinAus One more excerpt from the "Birth of the Yellow Jersey" by P. Bouvette and F. Galametz in Peloton Magazine No. 87 this month. Previously I copied the article's accounting of the L'Auto announcement of the idea for the yellow jersey 100 years ago on July 10. With what must have been the equivalent of Amazon Prime next day service in 1919, the first jersey was presented on July 19th. "The popular Eugene Christophe had been leading the race since the stage 4 finish in Le Sables-d'Olonne, and the Tour was in a short break in Grenoble prior to stage 11, when he received the very first yellow jersey. ... 'It was there that I received a beautiful package of six jerseys.'

19-Jul-2019
00:15:15

SFinAus "On this occasion, eight lines within L' Auto's 'About the Race' column were given over to the episode: 'This morning, I handed over to the valiant Christophe a superb yellow jersey. You already know that our director [Desgrange puts himself centre stage] has decided that the man at the top of the general classification should wear a jersey in L' Auto's colors. The battle for the possession of the jersey is going to be passionate!' (Ask the WHF one hundred years later! - sfinaus) Without any great fuss, the presentation took place at the Cafe de l'Ascenseur in Grenoble's Cours Gambetta. It was from there that Christophe set out in the early morning of July 19, wearing the very first yellow jersey, to tackle the Grenoble-Geneva stage over the Galibier pass. "... Christophe said that none of the six jerseys he'd earned survived World War II. 'They fell apart during the war', he said. 'I used them as vests and simply wore them out. After all, back then, we didn't know what was going to happen.'"

BusterSci About 45 minutes away from the start. Here's something to look at while we wait. I'm not much of a photographer and I generally don't take pictures except snapshots. But I went through a phase when I tried, and this picture of a grand old lady is certainly the best attempt I ever made.

Joanna in New York Good morning and great photo, Buster!

19-Jul-2019
07:25:38

Joanna in New York Sorry for my tardy arrival, decided to get my recumbent ride in before the ITT.

19-Jul-2019
07:26:04

BusterSci Hardly tardy. Still over a half hour until the first rider heads out.

19-Jul-2019
07:26:39

Joanna in New York I missed about 6 weeks of riding due to illness and injury (after basically not missing a day all year), so trying to get back into the swing of things.

19-Jul-2019
07:27:20

BusterSci Exercise is good. My slooooow shoulder improvement has gotten to the point where I can work in my shop again, and I think that work actually further improves things, as it increases the variety of motions I use regularly. Next step is to be able to start lifting weights again.

19-Jul-2019

Joanna in New York Statement from Dennis: "I am very disappointed to leave the race at this point. Obviously the individual time trial tomorrow had been a big goal for me and the team, but given my current feeling it was the right decision to withdraw earlier today. I wish my team-mates the very best for the remainder of the race and would like to thank all the Tour de France fans who cheered for me, at home and on the roadside, since Brussels. I will hopefully be back competing in this great race again over the coming seasons."

19-Jul-2019

19-Jul-2019
08:04:19

BusterSci So Dagies has Geraint and Asgreen today. I've got Wout and Chad Haga.

19-Jul-2019
08:04:53

BusterSci I started with Tony Martin, but then remembered Haga's Giro performance.

19-Jul-2019
08:05:33

Joanna in New York I like the idea of Wout, but trying to determine if Thomas wants the Yellow now, verses a couple days from now. I also thought Martin, but I think Wout.

19-Jul-2019
08:24:07

BusterSci SBS decided to use their Dennis interview anyway. Ironical, he talks about making the right decisions.

19-Jul-2019
08:24:21

Mons Soseman I hate to say it, or suspect it rather...

19-Jul-2019
08:27:21

Katie S Apparently you can't write "Just * watch" either or the profanity filter will get you...

19-Jul-2019
08:28:32

Katie S Just caught up on the stream here ... Watched Dennis' interview and read this bit from his statement: "given my current feeling it was the right decision to withdraw earlier today" ... there's those right decisions. Still mysterious

19-Jul-2019
08:28:49

BusterSci It's been said. And suspected. But there are lots of other equally plausible reasons in this particular point.

19-Jul-2019
08:29:02

Katie S The interesting this is how the team rep yesterday during the media scrum answered all the questions, but when a reporter apologized for having to ask the obvious doping question, the guy blew a gasket

19-Jul-2019
08:50:29

Tim in KY Tomorrow they climb the Tourmalet from the west and finish at the top. The last time they did that, it was so foggy you couldn't see anything.

19-Jul-2019
08:56:10

I like it better when they descend to the west. Very scenic. Especially the cows wandering across the road.

Katie S Tourmalet's my fave because I got to climb it - and descend - both on the west side. I wonder if the riders will go back down the way they came up, or will get off the mountain by descending down the east side.

19-Jul-2019
09:02:34

Katie S There's not a lot of space up there

19-Jul-2019
09:02:52

Joanna in New York Küng's kit is torn over his hip.

19-Jul-2019
09:05:26

Katie S huh. why would you wear a torn kit? It's not very aero. (What'd we miss? crash or just wardrobe malfunction?)

19-Jul-2019

Joanna in New York Sounds like he crashed after the first time check.

19-Jul-2019
09:07:13

Katie S Polka about to start

19-Jul-2019
09:17:33

Tim in KY Katie, they will only descend as far as the busses, probably to the east at La Mongie. They have a three hour transfer east to Limoux.

19-Jul-2019
09:18:09

Katie S that seems prudent...

19-Jul-2019
09:19:09

BusterSci It used to be easy to find the details of where the busses were parked, where the team cars were diverted for the finish, etc. I haven't seen that readily available.

19-Jul-2019
09:34:24

Katie S Been thinking about your dad, Buster. Can you share an update?

19-Jul-2019
09:35:49

BusterSci Angioplasty went well. He's at stage 3 renal failure and they thought there was blockage there, but it looked clear so they opened up the legs. The procedure was as successful as could be expected, but he is still dealing with horrific pain in his affected leg. Even with consideration of his condition, he's an awful patient. But he's home, and the opioids he's on are just dulling the pain.

19-Jul-2019
09:38:53

BusterSci Thanks for asking. My next challenge is trying to get him to accept some mental health assistance. He's been an active guy all his life and his convalescence is causing major issues. But he thinks he's "too smart" for that.

19-Jul-2019
09:41:58

Katie S I'm glad the procedure went well and that there's no blockage, but, that pain sounds overwhelming. Will keep him in my thoughts.

10:25:02

BusterSci WHEELIE!

19-Jul-2019
10:27:37

-  Joanna in New York Couldn't agree more about privacy - do not exploit someone, especially when they are vulnerable. 19-Jul-2019 10:28:05
-
-  Joanna in New York You called it, Buster! Sagan does not disappoint! 19-Jul-2019 10:28:19
-
-  Katie S dang, and I was shooting the cat (insulin) and missed it! 19-Jul-2019 10:34:14
-  BusterSci We all use that phrase differently, Katie. 19-Jul-2019 10:38:26

-  Katie S This TT on a bright sunny day is causing a lot of pain 19-Jul-2019 10:42:09
-  PasadenaK8 Katie: Many years ago we had a cat with diabetes... found the best time for the insulin shot was when she was 2 or 3 bites into her breakfast. That way she associated it with a good thing. Chomp, chomp, chomp, shot, pause, chomp, chomp.... 19-Jul-2019 10:42:15
-
-  Katie S oh man, this guy should get the combative if they award it in ITTs 19-Jul-2019 10:42:30

19-Jul-2019
10:43:30

Katie S Richie's down the ramp...

19-Jul-2019
10:43:57

PasadenaK8 You're lucky it's in that form, Katie. Initial attempts at giving a cat a shot are not fun.

19-Jul-2019
10:44:18

BusterSci Gonna remember that if the time comes when Ripley doesn't view medication as a treat. She's the easiest dog I've ever known with that.

19-Jul-2019
10:44:21

Katie S oh, it's a syringe all right, but she's distracted by the treat.

19-Jul-2019

10:45:32

Joanna in New York Exactly, Katie!

19-Jul-2019
10:45:40

BusterSci With our prior dog, Strider, even small pills were difficult. We'd wrap a pill in soft cheese, he'd gobble it, and 3 second later the pill would pop out of his mouth.

19-Jul-2019
10:46:14

PasadenaK8 Kinda like a dog's version of a magic trick *;-)

19-Jul-2019
10:47:56

BusterSci Frau's family dog when we met was a miniature schnauzer. I watched him eat a bowl of stew and when he was done, he spit out 11 peas. That's when I knew he was a goo' boy.

19-Jul-2019
10:52:54

BusterSci Twitter says Bardet intends to make a bike change at some point in the stage. So we shouldn't panic when it happens.

19-Jul-2019
10:54:32

Tim in KY Looking at the profile, I can't figure out where he would switch to a road bike.

19-Jul-2019

 Donny no one likes WHF more than me. That was amazing though. JuJu proved last year that he can climb with the best. the TT is something else. If he has secretly been perfecting his GT riding, it was one of the best snow jobs ever pulled. 19-Jul-2019 11:59:08

 Donny It is sad that anytime anyone in cycling does something exceptional there is that fear and doubt. Just in this moment I am trying to just be happy for him, and for all of us that get to enjoy this performance. 19-Jul-2019 12:00:36

 BusterSci San Juan ITT winner this year, Paris Nice in 2017. It's not new. 19-Jul-2019 12:01:07
